Mr. C. W. Chess bought all the fireworks in town on the 4th, consequently had all the fun to himself. His wife also presented him on that day with a fine boy—the first.

We are now feasting on string-beans, peas, corn, tomatoes, cucumbers, cabbage and potatoes, all of our own raising, and cooked by one of the best cooks in the land.

Capt. Louis Stahl has been made superintendent of the Louisville and Henderson packet company, vice Capt. Berry, resigned. Capt. Berry takes charge of the Eagle, and Capt. Baldwin of the Office.

It is Doctor Lampton now, the title of D. having been conferred upon him by competent authority. He deserves to be a Bishop, if faithful and life-long service in the cause of the Master merits such distinction.

At Derby, Ind., on the 4th, they had one of their grand balls which has made the little town famous. On this occasion there were nearly five hundred persons in town, and Eliza's Social Ball, $50,000, was packed all day and night with the gay and festive, tripping the light fantastic. Don't you ever give Derby out on a dance.

Mr. C. G. Ward, who went down the river with the excursionists on the 4th, informs us that a serious mishap befell our friend and kinsman Mr. George H. Haynes, at Owensboro on the evening of the 3rd.

It appears that he went into a bathing-room to take a bath, and after denuding himself of his clothing, assumed a recumbent position in a bath tub. The colored attendant turned on the hot water first by mistake, and George was so seriously scalded from head to foot that he has been confined to his bed ever since.

Mr. Knott at Big Spring.

The appointment of Mr. Knott to speak at Big Spring, this county, has been changed to Wednesday, July 18, (next Wednesday). Let's all make up a party and go see "Old Puck" skin a coon.

The Vote on the Bond Law.

We call the attention of the voters of Breckinridge county to the order of the county court submitting the question to the vote of the people at the approaching August election, whether or not a fund should be created for the maintenance of our county roads.

The act of the legislature is published in full, that all may become acquainted with its provisions and know its future workings, if adopted by the people. The law itself makes it the duty of the county court to submit it to a vote of the people, and to cause the publication of the law for the intelligent consideration of the people.

It is our purpose, before the day of the election, to speak more fully about it. We content ourselves this week with merely mentioning the subject, and calling the attention of our people to it.

We will add, however, at this time, that our roads are shameful, and we have been criminally negligent of our best interests in relying on the general road laws. They have produced in the past only the worst results, as everybody knows, and it is a self-evident proposition that a change of system is a necessity. The necessary legislation has been furnished, and the question only is, whether we shall continue the old shameful, ruinous plan, or adopt a new one.

The law proposed works well in many counties of the state, and is not new. It is new only to those who have not looked around them, and we venture the opinion that it will commend itself to the voters, and will be ratified by a large majority.

Tobacco Notes.

Capt. A. J. Gross, who has been traveling considerably over this and the adjoining counties, says he never saw a better prospect for a good tobacco crop than at present.

Attempted Highway Robbery.

One night last week, as Mr. Buzby, a young brick worker on the railroad, was going up the hill to his boarding-house, Mr. J. W. Steele's, he was stopped on the side of the hill, northeast of Judge DeHaven's residence, by three men, who demanded the money, what other valuables he might have upon his person. Mr. Buzby stooped and picked up a stone and threw it with all his force into the face of one of the would-be highwaymen, and he thinks knocked him off the embankment. He did not stop, however, to see what became of the fellow he tumbled over, and away he went on the order of his going, but went at once, and in a monstrous hurry, in the direction of Mr. Steele's, where he was reinforced and returned to capture the rascals, who, in the meantime, had found it convenient to change their location. Owing to the darkness of the night Mr. Buzby could not distinguish whether his assailants were white or black.

Mr. H. J. Carter, druggist, at Princeton, Ky., says: "In no instance has a purchaser of Brown's Iron Bitters expressed dissatisfaction."

TRIAL OF THE BINDERS.

The Wood Triumphs Over the Deering and St. Paul.

Editor Breckinridge News:

There was a trial of self-binding on the farm of Mr. Gus W. Richardson, near Hill Grove, Meade county, on Friday and Saturday, June 23 and 24, the competing machines being the Walter A. Wood, the Deering and the St. Paul. The Wood was decidedly the favorite all day Friday, but on Saturday it had some accidents. It was running low, and there being a great many rocks in the field, one broke a portion of the platform, which came loose, and the elevator taking hold of it broke off a buckle, which detained it some time. After this the lines got caught in the wheel that drives the reel and wound round the shaft, breaking off the shield. This detained it fully two hours. Being supplied with another, it went to work, and notwithstanding the accidents, the best work of the three machines, as it had done all the time. It excelled the others in short and in long grain, in grain lying from the reel, and in any other kind of grain. It was given up that the wood did the best work, saved the grain the best, and bound the bundles neatest and best. In conclusion I will say that they all did good work, but that the Wood did the best. The machines were all sold. The St. Paul and the Deering were sold because lighter than the Wood. I have given you the best statement that I could.

Some poet has said that "All torments of the damned we find in only three, Oh! Jealousy, thou tyrant of the mind." This is gradually becoming and magnificently inaccurate. An sufferer from indigestion knows to the contrary. Indigestion, the villain of the tragedy played among the gastric juices of the stomach, can and does double discount the horrors of jealousy.

Jealousy is often an attendant upon the latter, and when indigestion is removed, this haughty companion of a deranged liver, and diseases of the bowels and kidneys.

ORDER OF ELECTION.

KENTUCKY, BRECKINRIDGE COUNTY COURT.

June 18, 1883 Term, 1883.

On motion of T. H. Wilson: It is ordered by the court that there shall be a poll opened at the various voting places in this county on the first Monday in August next, for the purpose of taking the sense of the voters of this county for and against an act of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, approved February 5, 1873, entitled, "An Act in relation to roads in Breckinridge County."

It is further ordered that said act be published for at least one month in THE BRECKINRIDGE NEWS, a newspaper published in this county, and be otherwise advertised as in said act provided.

(A Copy.) Attest: WILL MILLER, C. B. C. C.

CHAPTER 65.

AN ACT in relation to roads in Breckinridge county.

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky:

1. That it shall be lawful for the Breckinridge county court, the county judge, and a majority of the justices in commission being present and concurring therein, at any regular or called meeting, to hold a general superintending of roads, which shall hold its office for the term of two years, unless sooner removed or discharged by the court; it shall be the duty of said superintendent to oversee all county roads within said county, and to cause to be kept, in good order, build, or cause to be built, all necessary bridges on county roads, have removed all obstructions which may be upon, or placed on, any such road; and open or change any road or roads that the court may direct; Provided, That for the purpose of assessing the fund provided for in this act is sufficient; and it shall not be sufficient, then it is to be used at such places and for such purposes as the superintendent, under the general direction of the court, may determine; the public good, and a fair distribution of the expenditures in the different portions of the county, always to be considered and had in view.

2. Said superintendent shall be empowered to hire as many hands and such hands as may be necessary to perform the necessary work on said roads; and he shall pay the smallest wages possible to the hands so hired; and he shall be empowered to purchase all necessary tools and implements to perform said work with; and said tools and implements shall be loaned to the county, and be under the control of the acting superintendent; the superintendent shall also be empowered to let out to the best and best bidder any work that it may be necessary to be done, under other orders, rules and regulations, as the court may prescribe.

3. That said court, organized and agreeing as prescribed in section one, may, if they deem it proper and expedient, appoint said superintendent, not exceeding one in each election precinct, whose duty it shall be to perform such service as may be required by the principal superintendent, under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the court.

4. That the superintendent shall, at least once in each year, and oftener if required, make to said court a full report of the work done by him or his assistants, or under or by his or their direction; of all the tools or implements purchased, and the cost of such work and tools or implements; and of all the expenses necessary to the full performance of his duties on said roads; and make a full and separate report of the number of days said superintendent, and each of his assistants, spent in performing his or their duties on said roads, or in the discharge of the liabilities incurred by the superintendent for labor, tools, implements, or materials purchased by him or
